Market Research & Product Strategy – OT Brewery Mango Peach Seltzer

Abhishek Pathak – Marketing & Strategy

CONTEXT

OT Brewery aimed to expand its product portfolio by entering the ready-to-drink (RTD) seltzer category, a rapidly growing segment within the beverage market. The objective was to identify a product concept that aligns with evolving consumer preferences while differentiating from existing offerings.

PROBLEM

The RTD seltzer market is highly saturated, with many brands offering similar citrus-based flavors and generic positioning.

The key challenge was to:

- Identify a flavor profile that stands out
 - Develop a compelling positioning strategy
 - Find a clear opportunity within a competitive landscape

INSIGHT

Research combining consumer surveys and competitive analysis revealed:

- Consumers are shifting toward low-calorie, light alcoholic beverages for social and casual occasions
 - Flavor plays a decisive role in trial, with mango and peach consistently ranking among top preferences
 - Existing competitors lack differentiation, with over-reliance on standard citrus and berry profiles
 - Purchase decisions are influenced not just by product, but by branding, lifestyle alignment, and visual appeal

Based on these insights, I recommended launching a Mango Peach Seltzer positioned as a refreshing, fruit-forward beverage with strong lifestyle appeal.

The strategy included:

- Product Strategy: Develop a balanced mango-peach flavor with a crisp, sessional finish
 - Positioning: Establish a mid-premium product that reflects quality while remaining accessible
 - Branding: Use clean, vibrant packaging to communicate freshness and modern identity
 - Marketing Approach: Focus on social media storytelling, influencer collaborations, and local activations to drive awareness and trial

IMPACT

This approach enables OT Brewery to:

- Enter a high-growth category with a differentiated product
- Appeal to younger, experience-driven consumers
- Strengthen its competitive positioning within the local craft beverage market
